

SciencesPo.

CERI CNRS

With the support of

G | M | F

The German Marshall Fund
of the United States

STRENGTHENING TRANSATLANTIC COOPERATION

BROOKINGS

Mercredi 24 juin 2009

14h30 - 18h45

Salle de conférences

Colloque

Is America the New France? How Obama's policies are transforming the United States and narrowing the transatlantic gap

2:30pm-4:15pm Assessing the scope of the Obama revolution

CHAIR: Denis Lacorne, Sciences Po-CERI

The progressive forces behind the Obama revolution: who they are, and what they want to accomplish

Justin Vaisse, The Brookings Institution, Washington

Are Americans ready for the Obama revolution, and have they changed?

Pietro Nivola, The Brookings Institution, Washington

Boomerang or top of the pile? Obama and the health care reform

Romain Huret, EHESS, Paris

DISCUSSANT: Pauline Peretz, Université de Nantes

4:30pm-6:45pm Is there a transatlantic convergence?

CHAIR: Justin Vaisse, The Brookings Institution, Washington

Is France a New America? Elements of convergence

Denis Lacorne, Sciences Po-CERI

After seven Obama administrations, maybe

Bill Galston, The Brookings Institution, Washington

Convergence is not the name of the game

Jacques Mistral, IFRI and Cercle des Economistes, Paris

DISCUSSANTS: Thomas Piketty, Ecole d'Economie de Paris

Elaine Sciolino, New York Times

Entrée libre
dans la limite
des places
disponibles.
Pas de réservation

Responsables
scientifiques :
lacorne@
ceri-sciences-po.org
jvaisse@
brookings.edu Organisation :
vermel@
ceri-sciences-po.org
Contact :
michel@
ceri-sciences-po.org